

A true Discourse of the Ar- mie which the King of Spaine caused to bee as- sembled in the Haven of Lisbon, in the Kingdome of Portugall, in the yeare 1588. against Eng- land. The which began to go out of the said Haven, on the 29. and 30. of May.

Translated out of French into English, by Daniel Archdeacon.

Whereunto is added the verses that were printed in the first page of the Dutch copy printed at Cos-len, with answeres to them, and to Don Bernardin de Mendoza.

2. King. 19. ver. 28. Because thou ragest against me, and thy tumult is come vp to mine eares, I will put mine hooke in thy nostrils, and my bridle in thy lippes, and will bring thee backe againe the same way thou camest.

A True Discourse of the the famous King of Spain's death in the year 1598. in the month of January the 15th day of the year 1598.

The first part of the year 1598 was a very good one for the King of Spain.

The second part of the year 1598 was a very bad one for the King of Spain.

The third part of the year 1598 was a very good one for the King of Spain.

The Epistle to the Reader.

I hath beene alwayes (Christian Reader) a continuall practise of the wicked and vngod-ly, not onely neglecting the almighty tie to trust in their owne might: but relying on themselves and theyr own power to glory and boast thereof vnto the world. So we reade in the first age of the world, Lamec trusting to the inventions of his song Iabal, Jubal, and Tubalkain, bo-steth himselfe vnto his wnes that hee would not take the least iniurie, no not of the meanest person, but he woulde slay a strong man in his wound and a yong man in his hurt.
 Nimrod

Nimrod in the second age waring mightie on the earth, and without all reuerence of the Lord, or (as the scripture speaketh) in the presence of the Lorde, hunting men like wilde beastes, neuer leste vntill by his cursed seede hee had erected hym a tower whose top might reache vnto heauen, thereby to get him a name, and to shewe vnto the world what hee was able to doe. To conclude the like vaine glory, wee reade of Nabuchadnezar, Nichanor, and diuers other.

But as this hath bene a continuall custome of the wicked, so they haue not herein respected or had regard vnto any thing more, then first the encouragement of their owne, I meane the vngodly, then the discouragement of the faithfull and godly: for heereby they would seeme to perswade them, that for as much as they are fewe and weake, as the godly godly alwaies are in respect of the wicked, and therefore not able to match or counteruaile the in power, they are not to stand with them, but as others haue done to yeeld to the: to this end tendeth the proud boast, and vaunt of blasphemous Rabschake Embassadour to that wicked Senacharib. Make warre saith he to Eliakim with my maister the king of Assiria, and I will deliuer thee two thousand horses, if thou be able to set riders on them. And afterwarde haue any of the gods of the nations by any meanes deliuered their land from the king of Assiria: where are the Gods of Chanath and Arphad? where are they of Sepharuaim and Hhuua? nay haue they deliuered Samaria, that the Lord should deliuer Ieruschalaim out of my hand. Thus to the discouragement of the people of the Lord Rabschake vaunteth and boasteth himselfe.

Inferiour to none of these are at this day our Italian Lamec and Spanissh Nimrod, the pope I meane and the Spanishe king : the one whereof trusting to the inuentions and practises of his priestly progenie, to small and great threatneth death without cause, being so much worse then cursed Lamec, the other hauing with Nimrod, like beastes hunted men with Dogges in India, woulde fayne vse the like practise heere in England, and hath by hys ships, made like Babel towers, baunted himselfe to make vs afraide : and because the sight of these, he knewe, could not come vnto all, hath heere as thou mayst beholde, like Sancharib by Rabschake by this booke, as by his embassadour, published vnto thee his whole power.

Neither yet comineth this embassage either to Chizkija, or Eliakim, to our gracions prince or her honourable ble counsaile, that they in his owne tongue might answere him againe, but he hath published it to all beside our selues, in Italian, Spanishe, Dutche, and French, and yet to them thereby to discourage vs: for these he telleth, he hath thus many huge shippes, so many thousandes of armed men, such multitude of munition as no man could deliuer vs out of his hand, or as if hee cried out with Rabschake: Let not England deceiue you, for it cannot deliuer you out of my hand, nor let not Elizabeth perswade you to trust in the Lord, saying, doubtlesse the Lorde will deliuer vs, and not giue ouer our countrey into the handes of the king of Spaine. But make apointment with me, and come forth vnto me, and so yee shall eat euery man of the fruit of his owne Vine, and of his owne Figge-tree, and drinke euery man the water of his owne Cesterne.

Cesterne. Haue not I practised (by receiuing and cherishing diuers of their owne nations) to make them fit instrumentes by treason to serue my purpose, and what shoulde ayle me that I haue not already conquered their countrey. Thus beloued, the Spanish Nimrod practiseth not onely to feare vs, but to allure all men from taking part with vs.

But such trust beloued haue wee in the Lord, and so little account in respect of the Lord we make of the power of man, that we suffer them to say euen as much in English too, nay wee teach them to speake it in our owne tongue, not that our purpose is as theirs was to daunt or discourage the fearefull multitude, but to propound vnto the world their folly in boasting thus baynely, and then to encourage our selues to go forward in that hope and confidence we haue had in the Lord.

For

For touching their folly, how ridiculous hath it bene, that when as in respect of the time it hath bin a practise of long continuance, and of so mighty and many Monarchies, as the Pope, the king and the prince: and last, of such provision, that for ships they haue built them like Castles: for men, made choise of expert and mightie: for munition, they haue much and marueilous: they shoulde come so long prouided against a land as it were vnawares, so manie and mightie Monarchies against so smal and litle an Island: such huge ships against so small pinases, as it were, and of these to take (as the Lord bee praised they haue) so strange repulse, is in respect of the trust and confidence they put in them, and of the triumphes and boastes before the victorie they made in diuers places of them, no doubt in the feare of the Lord to be not onely derided and laughed

laughed at, but acknowledged a most strange and wonderfull worke of the Lorde, as who knewe their dwelling, and their going out, and coming in, and their furie against him. And therefore because they had raged against him, and their tumulte was come into his eares, did put a booke into their nostrilles and a bridle into their lippes, and brought the backe the same way they came, not suffering them to enter into the land nor to come against it with a shielde, nor to cast a banke about it, but hath deliuered it for his owne sake, and for his seruants sake.

And concerning the confidence and encouragement, wee are on the view of this catalogue, to conceaue, how can it be but most speciall and singular, seeing the deliuerance hath bin most singular. For when we shal see from what strange crueltie, and foraine power we haue bene deliue-red red, shall we not alwaies after say, Praise be the Lord which hath not giuen vs as a pray vnto their teeth but our soule is escaped even as a bird out of the snare of the fowler the snare is broken and we are Deli-uered, our helpe therefore is in the name of the Lord which hath made both heauen and earth. For hence we learne that a horse (and so a ship with men and all meanes els) is but a vayne thing to saue a man, neither that anie man is Delivered by much strength, but that whereas they put their trust some in horses, some in Chariots, we must remember the name of the lord, & with Iehoschaphat crie: We had no strength to resist so great a multitude coming against vs, neither knew we what to do, but our eies were fixed on thee O Lord.

Thus therefore thou seest what was our drift and purpose in publishing this in our native tongue which hath hath bin heretofore in diuers languages, not as the aduersarie would to discourage thee, but to make thew vnto thee how vayne it is to trust in outward meanes, and then to learne thee to trust in the Lord, who is able to saue thee, and as hee hath alreadie begun, will do still, if thou go forward to trust in him. For the lord hath caused the forces of the Spaniards, this their great Armado, to be daunted, and greatly endangered by his great wisdom, putting into the minds of our Captaines and sol-diours, to provide sixe or seauen of the worst of the ships they had at sea, with such necessaries as should serue best to set them on fire withall, which they sent amongst the Spaniards, thereby to remoue and scatter them, yea euen when they thought themselues most sure, and likeliest to receive more succor, & as they lay fast at Ankor neere Calis. Therefore they they arose and sought euery man to helpe himselfe, hewing and slipping their cables, & leauing their ankors behinde them. Yea and some he hath caused to run aground vpon one shore, and some vpon an other, and some suncke, and other some taken with diuerse of their men, some of them of great name, with their ensignes, banners, streiners, and gitterns, wherof diuerse were hanged about the battlements and crosse of Daules, on the 8. of September 1588. & on the 9. at London bridge, thereby to comfort his English Elizabeth, and all her faithfull subiects. For the which his many and sundry benefits, wee beseech him graunt all that faithfully beleue in him, grace to continue thankfull in glorifying him and his holy name for euer, to the good example of all other.

appositissimo.

Typographus lectori beneuolo, & veritatis studio. S. D.

A Mice Lector, cum incidissem in disticha quadam à Coloniensibus edita, per quae, ex suo voto, quasi iam deuicta ab Hispanis Anglia triumphabant, Volui Vnum ex his, Vnā cum alijs, Veritatis amantiū Virorum car-minibus, typis excudere, Et, quibus in lucem editis, Et tibi, Et omnibus sinceris Viris de summa in confingendis, Et spargendis varijs rumoribus, Coloniensium, Et pontificiorum omnium impudentia, deque Hispanorum praefugatorum, Et fugitiuorum incredibili, Et inexpla-bili in inuadenda aliena possessione, Et cupiditate, Et temeritate, certò constaret. Tu his interim frui, Et Deo, qui pro seruanda, a tanta tyrannide Anglia, pu-gnauit; mecum gratias age, Et Vale.

Colonienses ad Angliam, & eius affeclas Europæ.

Tu, quæ Romanas voluisti spernere leges, Hispano disces subdere colla iugo.

Anglus ad Hispanum Romanæ Meretricis amatum.

Colla iugo, quid ni? nihil est, Hispane, quod optas.
Sic Utinam possim subdere saepe tuo.

A L I V D

Hispane, Anglorum voluisti spernere vires?
Anglorum disces subdere colla iugo.

Scis cur Romanas spernit gens Anglica leges?
Haud seruile ferunt libera colla iugum.

*Hecce Romanas leges, Hispane, tueri?
Hoc est nostra tuo subdere colla iugo?
Vix prius armatas Anglorum cernere classes, Absque mora turpi quam dare terga fuga.*

A L I V D
Si numeras, Hispane, Duces, si Vulnera, naues, Anglorum metues ne patiare iugum.

Ampla quidem, truculenter refers, Hispane, trophaea, Scilicet ad propria sequitur te dedocui oras.

*Colla dabis, qui terga dedit, quid, amice, superbis?
Turpius Hispano quis mihi terga dedit Ergo age, si Volupe est, Romanas discere leges, Exemplo Hispani discere perge tui.*

Aliud ad Poetam Coloniensem.
*Subdere eum videas Hispanum colla Britanno, Vnum age, nec Vates postea falsus eris.
Scilicet ipse tuum properans laqueo inferre collum Te dignum facies, & breue fiet opus.*
